

“My practice is often overcrowded.
To introduce a new treatment method actually seemed unthinkable. Until I could see for myself how the VitalfieldTechnology enhances my everyday practice.”

“I love my profession and I’m happy about every patient whom I can help effectively.

When I enter my practice in the morning, sometimes as many as 30 patients are already waiting for me. So it is not that easy to take sufficient time for every single one. Even though I was actually convinced of the VitalfieldTechnology I was worried at first that these devices would create even more work and that I might get myself into trouble as a result. But in fact, they rather facilitated my routines and sped up quite a few anamneses.

Today, I can sometimes even exchange a few more words with my patients, which certainly benefits their recovery.”

“I take a thorough look at a treatment method and always form my own opinion before I come to a decision.”

“Prior to committing myself I took a close look at the Global Diagnostics for an extended period of time.

I always want evidence. This is why I’m interested in everything understandable. The course of a treatment has to be observable to ensure that everything you do is sound and reasonable. Quality, purpose and practical use are therefore my first priority – I realised that this investment would definitely be worth it for my practice.

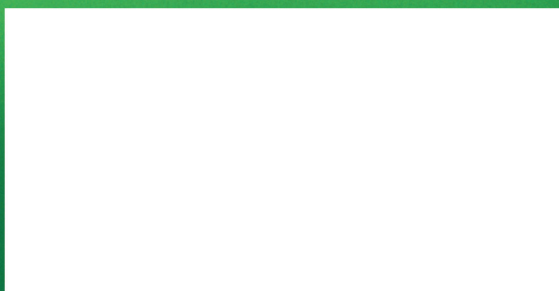

In my opinion, nothing is incurable, but sometimes the way out of a situation first has to be found. Therefore I try hard to understand what the body is doing, and the Global Diagnostics supports me exactly the way I need it to.”

“The Global Diagnostics is simply used to measure what’s there. Surprisingly, the patients often understand the result much better than you might expect, because it simply is correct.”

“Many of my patients have already undergone a whole series of therapies or even feel given up on. They do not expect that one treatment will immediately eliminate all of their physical troubles, but there should be at least some progress.

The utilisation of the VitalfieldTechnology is a good backing for revitalisation and the build-up of energy – which I increasingly consider a necessity. Sometimes patients come and demand the VitalfieldTechnology because they feel they deserve it. They want to see the bigger picture, and want to know ‘what lies behind it’.

I take a perfectly unbiased approach. I see the actual energetic condition, and I can immediately make out the main focus. The then following treatment is more effective, and it takes my patients less time to notice that they are feeling better.”

“I wasn’t looking for anything which would do the work for me – it was the multitude of viewpoints and impulses which the VitalfieldTechnology offers that made me curious.”

“There is always an area which can easily be overlooked in the effort to consider everything. All methods of examination have flaws. Even when equipped with the best and most versatile training, nobody can always take every perspective into account.

I thoroughly examined the VitalfieldTechnology devices. The options that these well-attuned system components offer, provide for a fast and effective overview and thus a more comprehensive approach than otherwise available to me in a short time.

This method enables me to overcome the usual limits of individual fields of knowledge. My assumptions and analyses are either confirmed, or I will be provided with a suggestion encouraging an entirely different view. In this way I can decide quite rapidly on how to continue.”

“The personal efforts involved in the search for the interconnected causes of an illness cost a lot of energy. I was looking for a method which largely functions independent of me.”

“I have spent a lot of time doing research on the causal interrelations of illnesses. Finding the connections with the use of a vast selection of test ampoules was sometimes very demanding so that I was often exhausted at the end of the consultation. I was looking for a system which would provide me with more qualified information independent of my personal condition.

In the beginning I didn't want the Global Diagnostics because there were already several devices in my practice. But after I witnessed how precisely it works and how distinctly the energetic background of the illness becomes visible, and is even documented I was more than convinced.

Today I can rapidly and effectively obtain expressive answers and attain amazing therapy results.”

“I never wanted to work with the aid of a machine. For me, manual therapy was the right way. Today, I don’t want to miss my VitalfieldTechnology devices. They enable me to also cover areas to which there are limits in manual therapy.”

“I was successful with my manual therapy method. But there was also the one or other patient I felt I had to do more for to help.

When I had the opportunity to measure one of these patients with the Global Diagnostics, it helped me to get a clearer concept and I knew exactly what to ask. This opened the door for other effective treatment approaches.

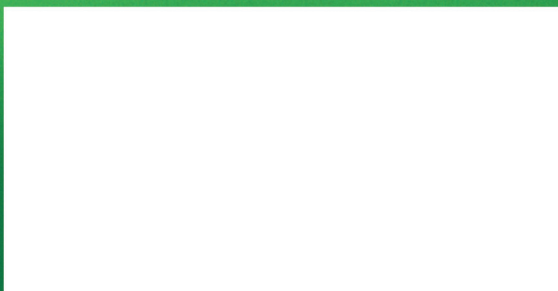

Today, more than ever, I put my personal experience to use while benefiting from the support of the VitalfieldTechnology on a daily basis. It is exciting to experience over and over again how successful this concept is.”
